

Online Safety Newsletter

November 2017

Dear Parents/Carers,

Welcome back! We are hope that you are enjoying keeping up to date with your child's learning via our website, class Twitter pages and Tapestry (EYFS only). We believe this is a fantastic way to share our amazing work and exciting learning. It also gives us a chance to provide extra reminders for key dates or changes in school. Twitter pages can be accessed directly or through class pages on our website. We also have an office Twitter account.

As some of you are aware, we are happy and excited to announce that we are launching Pobble in school. Pobble is a website that safely publishes pupils' writing online, giving children an audience for their work as well as being a bank of amazing resources. All children throughout school will be using aspects of Pobble in their writing sessions to provide a range of engaging stimuli to support their lessons. KS2 children will become published writers and will have an individual login. Class teachers will work alongside the pupils to show them how to access and use this safely. If you have provided us with your email address (KS2 only), you will receive an email when your child's work is published.

Further information:

Pobble is used by schools all over the world to safely share and celebrate children's writing. It is also used to inspire and engage children. To read some of the wonderful work being shared by other children, visit www.pobble.com.

To learn more about Pobble's approach to Online Safety and how they will commit to keeping your child safe online, please read Pobble's guide to e-safety at the following link: <http://bit.ly/pobble-e-safety> .

Please see the attached internet use questionnaire, please complete and return to school. This helps us tailor our Online Safety lessons to suit the year groups.
